RIZIERI

RIZIERI (Langhe - Piemonte)

Rizieri is a family-run boutique winery located among the beautiful hills of the Langhe region. The vineyards, about 7.5 hectares located in La Morra (Silio cru) and Diano d'Alba, are the finest native species.

Lying on a hillside calcareous and clayey soil, facing mainly south and surrounded by woods, they enjoy a unique microclimate, which, with its cool and temperate influences, allow optimal maturation of the grapes.

The heart of the winery is the 19th century farmhouse with the nearby new cellar, inserted inside the hill and designed with the aim of maximizing energy savings. In the cellar as in the vineyards, Rizieri minimize intervention so that each wine freely expresses its personality becoming the true reflection of its original grapes and terroir.

Bottling is carried out with the minimum use of sulfites and without filtration to preserve aroma, color and taste.

NINO NEGRI (Valtellina - Lombardia)

Established in 1897, Nino Negri is the premier estate producing wine in the Valtellina DOCG in Italy's Lombardy region. The estate specialty is Sfursat ("strained" or "forced"); a wine made from grapes harvested by trained pickers and dried for 100 days in the cool, dry, alpine air. This winemaking style combines the opulence of Amarone with the elegant complexity of Barolo.

The success of Nino Negri is due largely to the efforts of winemaker Casimiro Maule who has worked at the estate since 1971, his entire professional life. In 2007, Casimiro was named "Winemaker of the Year" by Gambero Rosso, the magazine authority in Italian wine.

The star and primary varietal here is Chiavennasca, the local name for Nebbiolo. The variety has been cultivated in the area for over 1,000 years and all Valtellina DOCG wines must contain at least 90% Chiavennasca.

The winery is located in the city of Chiuro in the 15th Century Quadrio Castle. The "castle" sits above an array of underground cellars which house thousands of barrels. All Nino Negri wines age for at least two years before they are released to ensure optimum maturity at time of bottling.

ANTICA FRATTA (Franciacorta - Lombardia)

In the mid-1800s, a local merchant named Luigi Rossetti fell in love with the land around Monticelli Brusati and decided to turn a farmhouse into an elegant mansion and winery, thereby establishing Antica Fratta.

By digging into the rocky hill behind the Villa, he built a beautiful wine cellar with four tunnels arranged in the form of a Greek cross to store his prized Franciacorta wines.

In 1979 the property was bought by Franco Ziliani of the Berlucchi family, who was charmed by the unique cellars and beautiful vineyards. Berlucchi was and is one of the major names in Franciacorta, but they wanted to expand into boutique production.

CAFAGGIO (Panzano in Chianti - Toscana)

More than 600 years of traditions. The first document attesting its existence dates back to 1408, a precious parchment conserved in the estate's archives. The estate was then called 'Cahago', which means 'enclosed, cultivated field'.

Records indicate that in the late fifteenth century the property was owned by the Benedictine monks of Siena before passing into the hands of various owners, including the famous Niccolini family from Florence. Before the end of the modern age the estate was sold to the Florentine Hospital of Santa Maria Nuova, and records show that, even at that time, the farm produced a great variety of food products, including wine and oil. In the nineteenth century, Villa Cafaggio passed to the Boddi family.

At the end of the 1860s, the property was purchased as a country house by the Farkas family, but by 1967 it was in such a state of neglect that the Farkas decided not only to renovate the wine cellars, but also to replant the vineyards and olive groves.

From 2005 to 2015, Villa Cafaggio has been managed by La-Vis Group, and since 2016 it became property of ISA S.p.A. (Istituto Atesino di Sviluppo S.p.A.), financial service holding company of Trento, which offers ideas, investment and new strategies for its development, to make the most of the opportunities offered by highly globalised markets.

The company since 1998 began its business by selling the grapes grown in the estate vineyards, but in 2006 Maddalena and her father, Orlando, decided to make their own wine from the grapes produced. Then in 2010 comes the new and very modern winery place of worship of Brunello Cordella.

The grapes made into wine are the fruit of the 9 hectares of the well-kept vineyards, of precise analysis, of modern agronomic practices, of the careful work of the winemakers, as well as of her father's experience.

CARUSO & MININI (Marsala - Sicilia)

The winery is located in Marsala, on the western tip of Sicily, and is housed in a traditional stone farmhouse dating from 1904, renovated and modernized with artisanal and technological tools and knowledge. Today's wines are the result of the work of four generations of winemakers, and the fruit of hilly lands, where restrained productivity concentrates aromas and flavors. Wines that speak of a Mediterranean landscape made of wind, salt, and different cultures that have met and will always meet.

Grillo, Catarratto, Grecanico, Inzolia, Zibibbo, Nero d'Avola, Frappato, Nerello Mascalese e Perricone, but also Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay and Syrah: these are the varieties that animate the organically cultivated Caruso & Minini estates and form the basis of six collections representative of the winemaking tradition in Sicily.

CANTINA DEL VERMENTINO-MONTI

VINI CON UNA STORIA
www.vermentinomonti.it

CANTINA SOCIALE DEL VERMENTINO MONTI (Gallura - Sardegna)

Thanks to the winemaking culture and the will of the Monti farmers, the area became adorned over the years with many small vineyards. And, twenty-two far-sighted winegrowers in July 1956 to ensure proper processing of the harvests set up the Cantina Sociale del Vermentino whose name pays homage to the noblest of Gallura's grape varieties.

Today the Cantina consists of 350 members who cultivate the 600 hectares in the territories of Monti, Telti, Olbia and Loiri Porto San Paolo to give selected grapes as the basis of elegant, refined and original wines.

The Cantina, nestled in three hectares of oak trees accommodates the production process from delicate crushing to storage in thermo-conditioned rooms.
